For those with whom the Bible i final authority, the financial question is about closed. Senator Blackburn of Kentucky, who is a great authority in matters of religion, is credited with saying: "Isn't the money of the Bible good enough for you? Are we to depart from the plain precepts of Christianity at the behests of Wall Street! That old father in Israel bought land in Palestine and paid for it in silver 4,000 years ago, and a money that would buy real estate in the Holy Land ought to be good enough to pay your interest with to the money lenders of the bourse." Add to this the authoritative state ment of our own Mr. Enright, who is just out with a pamphlet on finance, n which he says: "The goldites ask, to 1, or 40 to 1? I answer, Almighty God, through the silent forces of nature, established the ratio of 16 to 1?" This should be an end of controversy with all people who are not willing to enter into rebellion against heaven and its monetary laws. But doctors for the benefit of the German church will disagree, even in theology, and at Rush Hill, at Chris.
